

Uncle Sam's Pay Day.
Science at Work.
Head, Heart, Socialism.
The Most Beautiful Words.
By Arthur Brisbane

YESTERDAY was pay day, and NO PAY DAY, for Uncle Sam. Eleven European nations need him $124,534,432, payable in Washington. Great Britain pays $96,550,000 in gold. Five other nations that paid were Italy, Czechoslovakia, Latvia, Finland, Lithuania, and Belgium. The largest $1,500,000. France defaulted on the payment of $10,261,432, all interest. Belgium, Estonia, Hungary and Poland also defaulted. Whatever Uncle Sam has to say about defaults he will say later.

If Woodrow Wilson's government had thought George Washington's advice good enough to follow, this government would have saved about ten thousand million dollars, LENT, and many other billions, SPENT.

The experience of 1932, and others like it to come later, may save the country much money in years to come.

A pompous British coal mine owner, who asked a famous scientist, "What practical good is all your science?" was surprised to learn that he had wasted thousands of pounds buying for coal through certain strata below which coal does not exist.

Other mine owners, worried by gas explosions that destroyed unnumberable miners, got from Sir Humphrey Davis the mine's lamp that ended the explosions.

Wherever you go science is at work, visible or invisible. John P. Bickett, of the McIntyre-Purvis mine in Northern Ontario, tells what science does for gold miners, that work far under ground, during the hours of sunlight.

Leaving their work, they take off their digging clothes and walk through a series of showers graduated in temperature, and get rid of the dust of the mine. Then they sit, naked, on a moving platform, with brilliant artificial sunlight shining on them, stimulating their blood through the power of actinic rays.

Their role of a few minutes through artificial sunshine lasts long enough to give them exactly as much of the rays as doctors want them to have, equivalent to six hours in natural sunlight.

They change to their surface clothes, refreshed by the showers of water and actinic ray helps.

That is an improvement on mining methods of old days, when women, on their hands and knees, in low tunnels of British coal mines, dragged carts loaded with coal, attached to chains around their necks, running under their bodies.

Corliss Lamont, whose able father, Thomas W. Lamont, is a partner in J. Pierpont Morgan Co., returns from Russia with big praise for that country, advising people to buy Russian bonds.

Wall Street gentlemen, who bought bonds from Kerenky, will cross their fingers, and when they hear that advice.

Young Mr. Lamont, it is said, believes in socialism, though nobody knows just what socialism is, except the fact that it is a word used by many sinners and women anxious to improve social conditions.

Mr. Herbert Bayard Shere, whose son also is determined to make the world better in a hurry, not at all agitated, tells Mr. Lamont, the father: "A boy who is not a socialist before he is 25 has no heart. If he is a socialist after 25, he has no head."

Young Mr. Lamont, whose sincerity and intellectual independence do him credit, reminds you that Russia's cars would not recognize the American government for 33 years after it declared its independence.

It is difficult to understand why the United States should imitate that foolishness.

Learned persons are asked by the New York American to select the 20 most beautiful words. Edwin Markham's list includes "reverberating, colliding, chrysothene, the formula," "Rupert Hughes" and "immense, translucent, tremulous" in his list.

The beauty of words is a matter of opinion and location. The most beautiful word in prison is "freedom," in the death house it is "reprieve," in Wall Street it is "dividends." In war it is "victory." In courtship it is "yes."

The most powerful words are short words. Men have made them short for convenience. "God, life, gold, far, near, good, bad, light, stars, sun, moon," are all of one syllable.

Bernard Shaw starts a trip around the world, announcing, "I will not give a cent for my trip, and, as a farewell jest, not very good, say, 'Give Ireland to the United States and liquidate all the war debts.'"

Ireland has renounced her debt from British control, and only the Irish have power to dis-

Quarrel of Boy Slayer

Jacob Dummell, society man and known as a motorboat enthusiast, whose body was in the heat was found by his mother, Mrs. W. W. Dummell, at 36 Myrtle st., Beacon Hill. The medical examiner's verdict was that "he died of a shot from his own gun, fired by his own hand." This photo was made aboard one of his boats. Dummell recently became engaged to wed Miss Helen Landon Richardson, of Brookline, a Junior League. Mystery and secrecy shrouded the shooting today.

Wise Federal Tax Reform Would Aid Business Revival

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

IN CURRENT DISCUSSIONS of the new taxation problem that besets Congress, there is all too little disposition to relate this question to the major objective of restoring economic health to the nation.

By its fiscal policies, the government can affect the whole economic situation and make a contribution to the revival of trade and the relief of unemployment.

With business stagnant, profits vanishing, and employment at a low ebb, it is INEXCUSABLE TO CONTINUE TO SEEK TO USE TAXES FOR PUNITIVE PURPOSES.

The tax revolters at the last session, who purported to undertake to "soak the rich," in reality greatly injured the poor by deepening the depression and thus DIMINISHING OPPORTUNITIES FOR EMPLOYMENT.

CLASS antagonism was exploited at Capitol Hill, but the resultant hedge-podge compromise tax law proved devoid of constructive results, though it was demonstrably harmful in discouraging initiative and enterprise through raising income tax rates to excessive levels.

Early in the history of the republic, Chief Justice Marshall enunciated the principle that THE POWER TO TAX IS THE POWER TO DESTROY.

Recent experience has demonstrated the DESTRUCTIVE character of unwisely taxes at home and abroad.

Since the war, depression has become chronic in Great Britain, where the tax gatherer was authorized to take an inordinate share of the national income.

Secretary Mills has presented statistics to the "Lame Duck" Congress showing the collapse of income tax receipts under present economic conditions and also recounting the failure of revenues from the nuisance taxes to come up to Treasury estimates.

MOTHER FINDS SOCIETY MAN DEAD FROM BULLET

Facts in the Killing of Jacob Dummell Are Kept From Police

The death by gunshot of Jacob Dummell, 31, Beacon Hill social sportsman and graduate of Princeton and Technology, whose engagement to a Brookline society girl was announced less than three weeks ago, was revealed this afternoon.

A wall of secrecy and mystery, excluding not only newspapermen but police, was built around the shooting by Medical Examiner McGrath. However, the shooting was revealed exclusively in the Boston News by its own hand.

According to his own hand in his own home," was Dr. McGrath's report, issued only after newspapermen had demanded it, and then issued through an assistant.

"Accident or suicide?" the assistant was asked, it being impossible to get Dr. McGrath on the telephone.

"You have the only statement Dr. McGrath will make," was the reply.

The police had absolutely no reason to suspect the shooting was anything but a murder.

Dummell's body was found in his bedroom at 36 Myrtle st., Beacon Hill, last night about 7:30 by his mother, it was learned. His forehead was pierced by a bullet.

According to his brother, William Dummell, Dummell had been cleaning a gun, a German automatic pistol, which was found on the floor near the body.

Mrs. Dummell, who was prostrated with grief this afternoon, found the body when she went to investigate a noise, which she had thought was the clattering of a door. The body was on the floor near a chair.

She summoned her other son to the house and called a doctor. Dr. McGrath was later notified but the police received no report.

Police, to custom, the body of the Beacon Hill social sportsman was removed to the morgue for examination.

Dummell's engagement to Miss Richardson was announced in the Boston News by its own hand.

Wine Bill Rejected 14-9; Held Unconstitutional

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The House Ways and Means Committee rejected the Lea wine bill today, feeling it to be contrary to the 13th Amendment.

Robbery of $18,000 worth of jewelry from two New York salesmen in the Parker House, where they were ambushed in their own room, threatened with a revolver and tied hand and foot, was revealed today.

The robbery took place last night about 6:30. The victims were Morris Greenfield and Kenneth Schneider. They were robbed of $200 in cash.

The salesmen arrived in Boston on the boat yesterday took a room on the tenth floor of the hotel and made their rooms up.

Returning to the Parker House with their sample cases, which were filled with watches, jewelry and a variety assortment of rings including many with diamonds and diamond bracelets, they went to their room.

As they closed the door and set their sample case down, two men stepped from the bathroom. One was exceptionally tall and carried a gun.

"Get over there against the wall," he commanded. "Not a move or I'll drill you both."

Greenfield was bound first by the smaller robber under the watchful eyes of the gunman. His hands were tied behind his back his feet tied securely together and adhesive tape placed over his mouth.

Schneider got the same treatment and both were left on the floor. A balcony man then leaving the room and may have been to recognize the taller man if he sees him again, said the police.

More than an hour later the two salesmen worked their bonds loose and called the hotel clerk. Police were notified and inspectors George Augustus and Joseph Decker took charge of the investigation.

DRUNK, SAYS STEARNS; REFUTE CHARGE

PRISON CHIEF HITS VISITS AS 'JUNKETS'

Foreman Makes Reply; Bridgewater Closed to Inquirers

Dr. A. Warren Stearns, Massachusetts commissioner of correction, made the direct accusation today that some members of the present Suffolk County grand jury were "drunk and disorderly" during a recent tour of inspection at the Concord reformatory.

His statement was met by the grand jury foreman, James Edward Brown, with a vigorous denial. Any drinking or drunkenness whatever, he asserted, would have been an unpardonable offense.

Dr. Stearns made his statement in explanation of his refusal to grant the grand jury permission to make another inspection trip, this time to Bridgewater.

"A DAY GOOD TIME," he said.

"The recent visit of the Suffolk grand jury was nothing short of scandalous. Certain members were drunk and boisterous, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that they were escorted through the institution."

"I do not believe such visits constitute part of the grand jury's work. As far as I can see, these men simply visit themselves a good time at $2 a day."

"Shortly after I had taken office, a drunken party at Bridgewater convinced me that grand jury visits were sources of much harm. On this particular visit, certain intoxicated members of the grand jury fraternized with some of the worst characters in the place, thus affecting the discipline of the institution."

"It is from Bridgewater that I have now barred the Suffolk grand jury. They will not be there as long as I am in office."

Dr. Stearns is due to be in office in January, Dr. Stearns said, calling attention to this fact, Stearns said.

WOULD ABOLISH JURY

"I do not want it thought that I am making these statements on the eve of my departure from office for any other purpose than to warn the public."

"I am not a party to the expenditure of public money on jury visits that accomplish no good. There is much talk of economy in running public affairs. Why not accomplish this economy?"

"I firmly believe that the grand jury is obsolete, a relic of a past time, and is used only for political purposes. If I had my way, I would abolish it."

"The action of the grand jury on past violations has been characterized not only by drunkenness, but by insolence to guards, disregard for prison rules, and a general weakening of the morale of the institutions."

ISOLATES FACTS

Foreman Brown of the grand jury said:

"I deny accusation made by Dr. Stearns. My answer to it is, in the words of Bruce Munchhausen: 'Vasse you there, Charley? I was. And I need certain to deny any drinking or any action out of the ordinary as far as the jurors were concerned. At all times I have found my associates fair and honorable in every respect."

"Visiting penal institutions by grand jurors has been a tradition through many years. I remember particularly the complimentary statements made by Grand Judge John R. Sullivan, state prison warden and President of the William O'Brien Suffrage League."

"As far as our offense is concerned, I myself, like all of them, in fact—facing curtailing expenses of these visits in penal institutions or in any other way within our power. I should like to remind Dr. Stearns of the Golden Rule."

Bankers Are Plenty Tough

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

New York City is trying to borrow money from the bankers. Now, the boys know how a rabbit feels in a wolf country.

Have you called on a banker lately? The president has moved his private office into an ice box and is wearing blinkers.

The refrigeration is perfect. There's saving away snowballs wrapped in cellophane.

The bankers aren't exactly telling us how to run the city. But they're in the back seat with a backseat stick in the driver's neckband.

Well, we got into this hole ourselves. But as the old Indian fighter said when he fell into the Grand Cañon, there should have been steps there.

If the bankers let us have the money we promise to be as good as well off. After all, this is the reason of goodwill to men who we have a lot of shopping to do.

But it seems that when the suit of evils is in the air all the bankers are in the air.

McKellar $5000 Visa

Bill Stirs the Ire of Herriot Backer

Paris, Dec. 16 (INR)—Another attempt by the United States to weaken reprisals on France for her war debt default will be met by sharp retaliation, with American residents of this country the chief target.

George Rousseau, Radical Socialist deputy, told International News Service today.

The warning was voiced when news reached the Chamber of Deputies that United States Senator McKellar of Tennessee had introduced a bill proposing the levy of a $5000 passport visa fee on nations in default, with the object of cutting off France's lucrative American tourist trade.

Rousseau was one of the few deputies who supported former Premier Edouard Herriot in attempting to obtain the Chamber's approval of conditional payment.

"I vote for payment," he said, "but I regret that I did not."

While the Chamber was receiving news of McKellar's bill and other hints of reprisals with mingled anger and anxiety, France's political future remained uncertain.

Conservative and Radical Socialist deputy who accepted in principle the task of forming a cabinet to replace the late Raymond Poincaré, was today headed for failure.

Paul Claudel, French ambassador at Washington, had received nothing from McKellar since the Stimson that it may be impossible until the Hoover administration has given further encouragement to the possibility of a war debt revision conference after payment of the debt.

Hoover Prepares Debt Message to Congress

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Hoover is preparing a message to Congress on debt extension to be submitted on Monday and probably releasing his request for extension of a debt commission.

There is no present intention on the part of the administration to structure the problem.

Congressional approval of a new debt commission is most unlikely. The House of Representatives has already passed a resolution authorizing a special commission to study the problem.

Fear Car Target for Sniper's Aim

A sniper's bullet or a stone smashed a window of a Boston building, one on Main st., Charleston, today.

The car was inhabited from Sullivan st. to Brattle station and was operated by William Watson, a 40-year-old, East Bostoner. Watson did not see the window broken but was informed by a passerby, H. P. Hayward, employee of a Charleston mill plant who was sitting in the car.

Hayward looked out quickly but could see nobody, and for this reason police believe a "sniper" may have fired at the car.

Wise Federal Tax Reform Would Aid Business Revival

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

get the necessary revenue, but to take it from productive enterprise WITH A MINIMUM OF DISTURBANCE.

By reforming its tax structure along scientific lines the Federal Government could hearten business men everywhere, and thus make a telling contribution to economic recovery.

Instead of envisaging taxation as a punitive instrument, Congress, recognizing the urgent need of prompt economic revival, should, at least for the duration of the emergency, re-interpret taxation as a POTENTIAL INSTRUMENT FOR ENCOURAGEMENT.

Supplementing the existing burdensome taxes, which have become relatively unproductive, with painless taxes, such as the sales tax, which the President alluded to, and also a tax on legalized beer, which Mr. Hoover chose to ignore, would help to inject energy and enthusiasm into the great employing and creative classes, which, unfortunately for the nation, have been gripped by despair and discouragement.

At the last session, the unintelligent "know nothing" group not only upset the scientific tax reform program, but also ran counter to ordinary common sense in a deliberate, demagogic attempt to penalize employers at the very time when popular welfare demanded a plan which would hearten these very key members of the economic world.

The fruits of the ill-considered "soak the rich" movement are to be seen at every hand—in vastly diminishing gross volume of business, in part-time employment, in larger unemployment and dispair time employment, and in further wage reductions.

To those who have been victimized by conditions, the dote of tax exemption, which the La Guardia group held out to the poor, is a privilege which cannot be converted into buying power at the market place.

Better a spendable income, subject to a slight sales tax, than a continued spell of income-less unemployment.

Purely technical considerations of public finance will drive the government to tap a broader base for taxation purposes, but in the process Congress should not be unmindful of the exhilarating effect on business and employment of substituting a sound, scientific taxation system for the existing half-baked, hodge-podge arrangement, which paralyzes the treasury, penalizes the thrifty and the productive, and thus DEEPENS THE DEPRESSION.

BABY IN CRIB, INVALID AND SCORES SAVED IN SIX FIRES

TWO BLAZES SET BY FIREBUGS, SAY POLICE

Oily Rags in Burning House; 2 Men Seen to Flee Another

A baby was rescued from the crib and scores of persons were driven to the freezing streets today during several Greater Boston fires, two of them believed to have been incendiary.

Gripping his way up a stairway and through smoke that had driven back the parents, Engineer George Carrier of Engine 6, Cambridge, rescued Christopher Miller, two, from a fire at 214 Alston st., Cambridge, where more than a dozen persons were driven from four apartments.

The fire, starting in the basement of the duplex house, ate up through the partitions into two of the apartments and through the roof. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Miller, with a friend, Joseph Parry, made an ineffectual attempt to get to the baby, being nearly overcome by the smoke.

FIREBUG ROUTS NINE

Nine persons, including four children, fled the three-story dwelling at 567 Athens st., South Boston, during a $600 fire believed to have been started by a firebug.

Patrolman Henry Donovan of the arson squad was assigned to investigate with fire officials after firemen reported finding oily rags in the unoccupied flat in which the blaze started.

Police in a regular car aroused the occupants and assisted Frank Buckle, Mr. and Mrs. Anna Gill and their two small children, Mrs. Della Fishery and her two children, and John Balinski, to leave the building.

Another probable incendiary fire caused considerable damage to an unoccupied house at 1000 Revere, where firemen reported some substance believed to be paint remover, spread around the house.

Louise Kertins, 12, of Maiden st., Revere, said she saw two men leave the house 20 minutes before the fire was discovered.

In Concord Joseph W. Buckley, a mail carrier, was awakened by smoke in his bedroom and he aroused all other dwellers in his home in Walden st.

Mrs. Buckley carried William, 3, and John, 1, to safety in blankets, while Buckley, with Joseph Walsh, 28, and Daniel Gaston, 15, pushed into a smoke-free front room, the bed of Mrs. Catherine Buckley, 74, the bedridden invalid mother of the mail carrier.

Then Buckley and the boys, after sounding an alarm, battled the fire in the kitchen and kept it down until firemen arrived.

2-ALARM CHURCH FIRE

Thirty persons were driven from the four-story building at 163 Commonwealth ave., Allston, when fire in the basement worked through the first and second floors. The damage there was $1500.

Two alarms were sounded for a ragshop fire in a two-story building in Sumner st., owned by Isaac Razin and conducted by Benjamin Kissel and Louis Gernick.

The two alarms, sounded because of the close proximity of other buildings in the "rag district," not because of the wind and cold, helped help from Everett and Revere.

Capt. John Lahan and Hosemen Alfred Chapman and Patrick Callahan, all of Engine 5, Chelsea, had a bad fire minutes when other firemen rushed a line of hose into the building and turned on the water, without seeing the men anywhere there. The force of the stream bowled the trio over and flopped off part of their rubber clothing. Fire damage there was $3000.

THIS ICE BUSINESS LEAVES HIM PRETTY COLD

Any ice today, lady? Just call Arthur White and he'll give you all the ice you want. His trawler, the Holy Cross, should really be a bank; it's got so many frozen assets. White's on the bridge getting ready to cut himself a big piece of Jack Frost cake. Always be careful on ice, it's usually full of wisecracks. (Staff photo.)

DEAD AS COLD WAVE HOLDS ITS GRIP

Pier Watchman Dies on Second Coldest Day of Season

One man is dead, the victim of the cold wave which holds all New England in its grasp today, and which is to become more intense by tonight, according to the weathermen.

The dead man, victim of exposure, according to police, was Thomas Mullin, 56, of 7th st., South Boston, a watchman at the Army Base. His body was discovered in a shed on the south pier by John Sweeney, who went there early today to learn where Mullin had not rung in for his key.

At the Fish Pier trawler heavily coated with ice, moved their way in like crystal ships sparkling in the sunlight.

Frostbite views unfolded their frozen catch after chomping away ice from the docks. Today was the second coldest day of the season, the temperature of bays being only one above that of November 27, the season's coldest day.

Barometer subsides reported much lower temperatures, Lexington and Haverhill had readings of 2 below. It was 3 above in Concord and 2 above in Arlington. In the state was in North Lancaster, 11 below. In the north, the mercury in many parts of the Middle West with St. Paul, Minn., reporting a temperature of 25 below. In Chicago it was 4 below and Kansas City, 2 below.

Quebec, Dec. 16 (INS)—Try to keep warm in Quebec province today. Forty-four below zero is cold in this language. And as it below at Lake Edward.

Man Held in Goat Farm Sale Fraud

Concord, N. H., Dec. 16 (INS)—When Alfred Swanson, 40, of Concord, N. H., was arrested today for alleged fraud in the sale of goats, he was just another goat.

He was arrested after Swanson in Concord Municipal Court today of selling him the farm for $6,000. Swanson, a New Hampshire, is the only one in New Hampshire, according to police, who has been charged with fraud in the sale of goats. He was charged with fraud in the sale of goats, he was just another goat.

Swanson is now being held in Concord for attempted larceny.

MARSH GREENFIELD Ambushed, bound, gagged and robbed of $19,000 in gems and $200 in cash were Maurice Greenfield and Kenneth Schneider, New York jewel salesmen. The daring holdup took place in a downtown hotel room as the pair returned from calls on customers. This picture was snapped at police headquarters after they reported their loss. (Staff photo.)

Gossip Reveals 1 Non-Suit in Mate's Bigamy to Mother

Her neighbors knew all about it before she did—his neighbors, some, but not his wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Wright Kelley of Cambridge at 24 Dorchester, stated that her husband had only four years but no other wife and six children.

Mrs. Kelley was notified today in probable case and was an unwilling witness to her husband's bigamy.

This by the neighbors eventually reached her ears. Mrs. Kelley, 40, dressed and she opened a letter from Burlington, England, addressed to her husband. It began "My dear husband, ended with 'Your loving wife and contained a plea to return to his wife and children."

Judge McGowan lightning the children and ordered Kelley to pay $1250 a week toward their support.

Christmas Club savings by the people of Massachusetts this year totaled $16,154,169.74, it was announced today by Bank Commissioner Guy. There were 347,429 depositors.

Savings banks have distributed $8,281,208.30 to 201,088 Christmas Club depositors. National banks have distributed $5,226,070.71 to 121,157. Trust companies have disbursed $2,727,329.14 to 63,106.

Lowell Trust Co. Pays Dividend

A Christmas gift of $700,000 will be handed to depositors of the Lowell Trust Co. Bank Commissioner Guy announced today. Nearly 12,000 depositors will benefit. Payment of 20 per cent is to savings depositors and 25 per cent to commercial depositors. The savings depositors have previously received 25 per cent.

Capt. John Lahan and Hosemen Alfred Chapman and Patrick Callahan, all of Engine 5, Chelsea, had a bad fire minutes when other firemen rushed a line of hose into the building and turned on the water, without seeing the men anywhere there. The force of the stream bowled the trio over and flopped off part of their rubber clothing. Fire damage there was $3000.

Strain of Lifting 10 Pet Words Gives Actress a Charleyhorse

New York, Dec. 16 (Trade)—At twilight waltz the cypress winds of the troubadour of Theatricals to the cavern, where Cornelia Otis Skinner lives serene in the crystal sphere of romanticism.

It doesn't make much sense, and there's no chance in getting the word "stallion" into it, but otherwise it gets into one sentence Miss Skinner's ten favorite words. They are: Twilight, Cypress, Tavern, Trade-wind, Crystal, Troubadour, Stallion.

Wilfred J. Funk, publisher and poet, started it all when he chose what he believed to be the ten most majestic and pleasant words in the language. Miss Skinner said of her choices:

"The word 'twilight' gives me a sense of restfulness, 'Troubadour' calls to mind the glamour of the past, 'Serenity' hypnotizes me. In 'Sphere' I sense the universal and the word has an 'Eisenstein' flavor, an added commendation, as Eisenstein is one of my heroes."

"Trade-wind" conjures up a sense of freshness, 'Troubadour' calls to mind the glamour of the past, 'Serenity' hypnotizes me. In 'Sphere' I sense the universal and the word has an 'Eisenstein' flavor, an added commendation, as Eisenstein is one of my heroes."

$110,000 Left to 3 Family Servants

Bridgport, Dec. 16 (AP)—Three persons, who had been in the employ of her family for many years, are left bequeathed totaling $110,000 in the will of Mrs. Mary P. Woodruff, filed today. Henry F. Bancroft, gardener, will receive $50,000, and $30,000 each was left to Fritz Holmberg, coachman, and Elmer A. Owens, nurse.

Five Tariff Boosts Approved by Hoover

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—President Hoover today approved tariff commission recommendations to raise import duties, effective Jan. 12, on folding paper, various kinds of cotton, velvet, textiles, prism-inoculars, upholstery materials to cocoa fibre mats.

Handbag Thieves Active in Allston

Handbag thieves were reported active in Allston last night and police today sought a pair of young men who snatched the purse of Mrs. Bertha Levy of 14 Park ave., Allston, containing $3, from her in front of her home.

HULTMAN PAYS TRIBUTE TO DEAD AID

Police Commissioner Hultman today issued the following statement on the death of his secretary, Bernard P. Scanlan, whose death last night at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital was a shock to all members of the department:

"Mr. Scanlan was a very dear friend of mine. He was a most unusual young man of that nobility of character which, if I had a son, I should be proud to have him possess. Of proven courage and great intelligence, he was gentle, patient and courteous to all."

His death was unexpected by his associates at police headquarters, although it was known that his condition, from anemia and complications, was grave. A policeman had given blood Wednesday to lend him strength.

His wife, Mrs. Marie Houghton Scanlan, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick H. Scanlan of Melrose and three brothers, Albert, Henry and James, all of Melrose, were at the bedside when death came.

Scanlan was 37. He had a notable public career and in 1920 resigned as head of the state commission on necessities of life, to become the police commissioner's secretary. He was a World War veteran and lived at 228 Bay State St.

Funeral arrangements are not yet completed, but there will be a requiem mass in St. Cecilia's Church at 9 a. m. Monday.

Military details for the funeral are being arranged by Brig-Gen. John H. Sherburne, who served overseas with Scanlan.

Interment will be in Wyoming Cemetery, Melrose. A large police detail will stand guard in Eastman's undertakings parlors, 806 Beacon St., while the body lies in state.

United Drys Elect Boston Officer

Washington, Dec. 16 (AP)—The national convention of 30 organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment today announced election of its officers:

President, Dr. James A. Crain, Indianapolis; vice-presidents, Mrs. Ella A. Bogle, New York, and F. Scott McElrath, Washington; secretary, Edwin C. Dinwiddie, Washington; treasurer, R. H. Marston, Pittsburgh.

Charles M. Sherwood, Boston, was named William Tilton, Cambridge, as the executive committee.

10 Killed as Xmas Tree Catches Fire

Tonight Dec. 16, 11 persons were killed and about 100 injured today in a $100,000 fire in the big Shurtcliffe department store.

The blaze originated from Christmas tree lights.

A few persons jumped from the building and were killed. Others were suffocated.

Two hundred huddled in the roof garden near a menagerie, where lions, bears and monkeys were roaring or screaming.

Steam Lighter and Liquor Cargo Seized

Boothbay Harbor, Me., Dec. 16 (AP)—The 110-foot steam lighter, Rocket, of New York, was seized here by coast guardsmen and customs patrol officers, who reported the vessel was laden with a heavy cargo of contraband liquor.

Eleven men found aboard her were arrested and held incommunicado on the ship.

CITY'S HEART AFLAME WITH JOYOUS RAYS

2 INDICTMENTS IN INDUSTRIAL BANK CRASH

Two more indictments, it is understood, were returned today in a reopened investigation of the closed Industrial Bank & Trust Company.

Some months ago more than 600 indictments, specifying a score or more witnesses, were returned by the Suffolk County grand jury, but since then only five of the individuals have gone to trial, all being acquitted.

As the six-month term of the grand jury was drawing to a close today, Just. John A. Blount, Jr., of the grand jury has been in charge of general presentation of cases was seen to make the announcement.

Just. John A. Blount, Jr., who for a year has been in charge of the Industrial Bank & Trust investigation, then returned and was followed, first by Marie E. Quinn, assistant state bank examiner, and then by Miss Gertrude E. Mahoney, the indictment clerk.

After Miss Mahoney and Quinn came out of the room. Just. Blount, Jr., then again arrived and the grand jurors were taken before Judge Louis S. Cox in Superior Court, who thanked them for their service and dismissed them.

Cobbler, as Santa, Frees Debtors

Auburn, N. Y., Dec. 16 (HNS)—With still one owing him and Christmas spirit prevailing, Dominic Vitito, Seneca Falls robber, decided to play Santa Claus to customers by marking all outstanding accounts "paid."

As the veteran cobbler sat down to write off his accounts he murmured with each stroke of the pen, "Merry Christmas Mr. Smith," "Merry Christmas, Mr. Jones," down the list to the last dollar owing.

Lieut. Allen, Month Off Force, Dies

Lieut. William H. Allen, retired less than a month ago from the police department, died today in City Hospital after a week's illness from a gland infection.

Lieut. Allen was 32 years a member of the department, in later years in charge of the City Prison. He was an authority on narcotics and the ways of drug addicts.

For many years he was a sergeant in Chinatown.

Lieut. Allen was a member of Bluebird Lodge A. F. and A. M. St. John's Lodge, Arch Chapter, William Parkman Community Zenith Lodge of Odd Fellows, Algoni Temple, Mystic Shrine, and treasurer of the Police Square Club of Massachusetts.

He is survived by his wife, Frances, four sons and one daughter.

BOSTON CALLED PARADISE OF GIGGLES

Boston, Dec. 16—There is a fine living in Boston for giggles, according to Reginald Balfour, 13, of Middleboro, who hoarded his big money and easy life in Brockton Court today where he was assigned on a charge of larceny.

When Judge Essex remarked that such a fine looking young fellow should not be in court on a charge of stealing a suitcase and clothing, Balfour explained that he was a "host."

"In other words, I'm a giggle," he said.

And to a reporter he explained that he lived a life of luxury and got well paid for it acting as "host" to wealthy Boston ladies for the past two weeks.

He admitted stealing the suitcase and clothing in Bridgewater some time before he learned how profitable was the life of a giggle.

Properly Pays Now

Rudapest, Dec. 16 (AP)—The government has drafted a new law permitting farmers and real estate owners to turn over part of their property in a payment when they can't raise cash.

MOTHER VETS IN BATTLE TO FREE BURNS

Pittsfield, Dec. 14.—To Gov. Ely and veterans of the World War is appealing another battle to aid in freeing Robert Elliott Burns from the horrors of the Georgia chain gang.

An official plea from Massachusetts that Georgia free Burns, was sent to Gov. Ely. An appeal from the mother of the man who was sent to France was also sent to the governor.

From Boston the veterans sent the following telegram to Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey:

"The 800 members of the 10th Eastern Veterans Association herewith protest against extradition to the State of Georgia of our former comrade in arms, Robert E. Burns, served with distinction in our regiment, which was recruited from after the declaration of war in 1917, with men from New England."

"Early avenger, Burns, as a member of the United States army, served 21 months in France and took part in the battle at Cambrai, Somme, Argonne and Meuse-Argonne and a defense sector."

"We firmly believe he has suffered already too much at the hands of the Georgia prison authorities. We hope you will not honor any request for his extradition from your state to Georgia."

SON STILL HELD
Nearly 600 miles away in Newark, N. J., her son was held captive by his captors. "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang," a story of Georgia prison horrors that irked officials of the "Cracker State."

Mrs. Catherine Burns, 35-year-old mother of the chain gang fugitive, fled the Massachusetts fight today, flanked by two daughters, Helen and Dorothy, Pittsfield, Mass. stenographers.

Her minister son, brother of the fugitive, had the plea for mercy in New York.

The brother is Rev. Vincent Burns, who unwittingly led police to the capture of his brother. He asked that Newark police ignore his search for Robert and was promptly followed by police of that city to a rendezvous with the fugitive.

v. A. Harry Moore, of New York, has promised him that his "other will be treated fairly. That Gov. Moore has promised him that his brother will be treated fairly. That was all that Gov. Moore would promise."

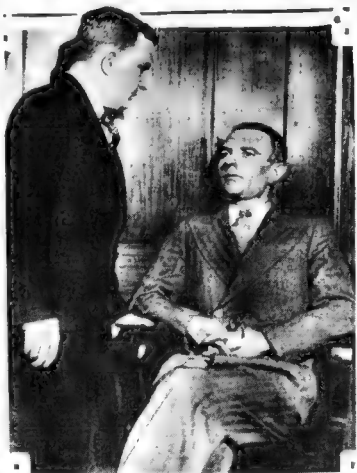

Gov. Moore must rule on a request of Governor Richard B. Russell, Jr. of Georgia that Burns be sent to the chain gang. He is jailed for lack of $25,000.

But the Pittsfield mother is fighting the fight of a fight that her boy may be freed.

"I haven't the money to hire a lawyer to fight for him. I must go to the people and plead with them to stir the hearts of the people in Georgia who with the stroke of a pen could give me my boy his complete freedom."

Robert Burns is entitled to that freedom. He has served nearly a year for a mistake in life. His record of service during the war should alone stir Georgia authorities.

CHAIN GANG LOOMS AGAIN

ROBERT ELLIOTT BURNS

Robert Elliott Burns, chain gang fugitive, in the law's toils for the third time for a $1 holdup, shown in Newark, N. J., police headquarters with a detective after his recapture. His aged mother, Mrs. Catherine Burns, of Pittsfield, who has appealed to Governor Ely to help keep her boy from returning to the chain gang, is also shown.

When he risked his life during those trying days in the trenches. ONLY ONE MISTAKE

"My boy is not a criminal. He made one mistake. Didn't prove when he escaped the first time that he could make good? He went to Chicago without a penny in his pocket and worked his way up to a position of trust and became a respected citizen of that city."

"He was a great fellow out there when nobody knew the true past. But when that woman betrayed him and Chicago and its people knew the true story, well they joined with the prison officials and forgot all about his battle to make good."

"I say openly that the last battle I made to save Robert was turned into a wide open racket. I was taken for everything that I had."

"By I remember walking into my son's cell down there and with him of a conference I had with an official of Georgia and his words were, 'Mother, you realize that what you should have given it to him then.'"

"He hesitated about writing out check. I wish I had written that check then and then I would have back here not to honor it."

He stood a few doors from the Perry home. A man got out, tall, sleek, dark-haired, and wearing specs. They saw a girl emerging from the Perry door—Ellen.

She hurried to meet the man. "Well, that ends that," said Tom, with a despairing expression. "She's told me about him. Jack Gilman's his name. She thinks he's a high-class salesman, but I know better. He's some kind of a racketeer. But she won't listen to me—she's in just plain."

"Don't worry. Ellen isn't a bad girl and this may be just a harmless adventure. Everything may come out all right yet."

"You think so, Mom?" he asked hopefully.

It was nearly two weeks later when Mrs. McAvoy made her little Christmas shopping trip which was to bring her brief but anonymous newspaper publicity as the little woman in gray.

Window shopping always intrigued Mother McAvoy on these rare occasions when she left her home block, and she often wandered the street a few doors from the Perry home.

Several minutes later when dozens of police and detectives were swarming about the scene, a little woman in gray walked by to one of them.

The man who had the gun didn't go in the car," she informed him. "That was just a decoy. I saw him run into that doorway there. He was a tall, dark man—named Jack Gilman."

"Black Jack Gilman," the detective shouted. "Hey, Inspector, it's a look after this."

Search of the building was begun, and simultaneously a red alarm for Gilman was sent out. An alert detective picked him up on his way to a hideout—with the rusty skill of him.

The exposure of her sister was a severe blow to Ellen, but a cheering one to Tom McAvoy, and now Mrs. McAvoy almost as proud of her daughter-in-law as of her own daughter.

BLONDE'S HAIR, SCENTED NOTES ON HUSBAND

A brunette wife who finds her hair on her husband's coat, and scented notes in his pocket, is not the only woman in his life.

Mrs. Joseph Wright, 35-year-old of Lafayette St., Salem, said she found all these evidences, and asked a divorce in Salem Probate Court today from Inspector Novostov of Von Du Lac, Wis.

Mrs. Novostov testified that her husband broke a glass on her head, when he learned she had found letters from women in his pocket.

They were married in 1917. Salem, and lived in several parts of the United States and Canada where Novostov's leather business took him. The case was uncontested, and taken under advisement.

After she was knocked unconscious by her husband, Herbert, and found that he was living with another woman as the testified in the same court today, Mrs. Alice Sapperton thought she better get a divorce.

Mrs. Sapperton testified she was married in 1911, and is the mother of five children. She charged Sapperton with cruel and abusive treatment.

This case was also uncontested and taken under advisement.

MORGAN STORES DRAW THROGS

Morgan's Furniture Store at 750 Washington St., Boston and the suburban stores in Somerville and Waltham were thronged with shoppers today in response to the advertising, published in "Friday's Boston Evening American."

This advertisement, totaling 25 columns, is believed to be the largest amount of advertising ever published in a single issue of a Boston newspaper by a Boston firm.

The shoppers were well distributed throughout the various departments in each of the stores, though radios and other attractions for girls naturally had the call. The holiday decorations of holly, wreaths and lighted candles combined with the crowds to make an attractive picture of the busy and cheery holiday season.

Shirley B. Royal, vice-president of Morgan's, gave as his opinion that a return to more normal business conditions was dependent in some measure on the progressiveness of merchants in carrying on aggressive plans for buying and promoting sales.

He gave the utmost confidence in the future of New England, which, reports tell us, is in better condition so far as retail trade is concerned than any other section of the country, with the exception of a few Southern states," he said. Morgan's will go forward with ambitious plans for the New Year."

Daily True Story

Tom McAvoy had been his mother's sole idol from the time of his father's death when Tom was five. She gave him all the help a mother could give, but felt that her ability to assist him was near an end when she saw the expression illumining his face when he talked about pretty Ellen Perry, who lived across the street.

Mother McAvoy began to worry then. She wasn't jealous, like some mothers.

But Ellen—Mrs. McAvoy wondered about her. She was a fine girl, but there was a restless look in her eyes which disturbed the older woman. A fine, laughing, head-but one likely to flutter into danger like a moth into a flame.

Early one Sunday evening Tom came into the fat, looking plump. "Why, son!" she exclaimed. "I thought you were going to be all evening with Ellen."

"No, did I?" said Tom. "But Ellen said her mother wasn't feeling well and that she had to go in and stay with her. Look out the window—what's her mother doing?"

A limousine had drawn up in front of the house.

BACON IN PLEA FOR LUFKIN AS G. O. P. LEADER

The squabble in the Republican party over the selection of a new chairman of the state committee has been brought to a head by Lieut.-Gov.-elect Charles H. Bacon. With his position as titular leader of the party at stake, Bacon lines up solidly behind W. W. Lufkin. In a communication to every member of the new committee, which meets early next month to organize, Bacon urges that the election of Lufkin would be for the best interest of the party.

It remains to be seen now whether the leadership of Bacon will prevail or that of National Committeeman John Richardson. The latter has stood steadfastly for Carl A. Terry of Fall River taking the position that the chairmanship should go to a member of the committee. Lufkin is not a member.

Charles H. Bacon, Republican leader of the Black Bay, it is understood, is ready to withdraw his candidacy in favor of Lufkin.

fighter for profit, but as a man fighting for his life. This is another version of "fighting the common cause," but it is especially important because it drags in the origins of the war, and in a peculiarly different way.

True to Type

What Was War for if It Wasn't For Profit?

By GILBERT SELDES

I was not pleased to find a man of the talent and influence of Maynard Keynes falling under the black magic which occasionally attacks everyone who argues about the payment of war debts. Mr. Keynes has a responsibility far greater than most people's because his influence is great; he is known to have stood out against the treaty which his country signed; he woke the world up with his "Economic Consequences of the Peace"; he predicted disaster and disaster came. People have thought of Mr. Keynes as of a scientist, unmoved by national passions. And, for the most part, his argument for leniency at the present moment was a pure argument, economic and not patriotic. But at one point—and, unfortunately, it was near the heart of the matter—he reverted to emotions and suggested that our loans to Great Britain were of a special sort, since they were not made as to a man investing, but as to a man fighting for his life. This is another version of "fighting the common cause," but it is especially important because it drags in the origins of the war, and in a peculiarly different way.

Divided Guilt

Researches in the past 15 years have totally destroyed the myth of Germany's unique and exclusive guilt for the war. Whatever guilt there was was well divided, and I think that in most countries England comes off easily. Yet England had been preparing for at least a generation to uphold her "supremacy" at sea, as a measure of self-defense, of course, but also as a measure of deterring her commerce and her investments abroad.

In 1917 I interviewed a number of British industrialists, asking them to say what they thought would happen to their country after the war. They spoke of taking Germany's place in the world, and of creating German dyes in England, of destroying Germany's pretensions in the Near East. The Germans were even franker. They were not not unconscious of the fact that Alsace-Lorraine was essential to their heavy industry. Russia wanted Constantinople as a trading port. I do not suggest that the manufacturers were particularly stupid or jealous. Even Mr. H. G. Wells, credited a book with the statement that for a generation after the war the hands of every Germany would be stained, as far as Wells was concerned, with innocent blood.

Profit—or Guilt

If men like Keynes are going to deny the economic basis of the war—but perhaps that phrase covers exactly the fact into which Keynes has fallen. Let me say, then, if men like Keynes are going to deny that the war was fought for profit, they will have to tell what it was fought for. They cannot fall back on German militarism any more than Germany's apologetics can fall back on British socialism for militarism. Any nationalism only represent desire to have power and to make money. There were other causes, racial and national; but in the motive of profit out of such is absurd.

The war turned out profit for the winners and the losers. Seeing this quite early, the victors attempted to throw upon Germany exclusive guilt in the treaty and exclusive punishment in the form of reparations. Both efforts have failed. The reparations have been scaled down to a cent on the dollar—provided the debt to us is also scaled down. The "war-crime" clause will exist in the treaty. And the victors, who have not wanted to pay their debt to us say that they cannot change the treaty because they believe in the sanctity of written agreements.

N. Y. Gains

From time to time indignant New Yorkers, fretting under the laws imposed upon them by their state and by their country, propose that the metropolitan district, centering on Manhattan Island, should secede from the Union. Almost always a large cry of approval goes up through the country. After seeing the failures on "law enforcement" for November I can see why.

The State of New York contributed one-fourth and more to all the cases in which arrests were made under the prohibition laws last month, and more than half of the New York cases came from New York City. Therefore, the average jail sentence was four days the average fine $25 in New York City; the average through the country was 160 days and $113. Obviously they take their prohibition more seriously outside the big town.

In a word, New York has three times as many rum cases as it should have. Or, if you prefer, the rest of the country is lagging behind. The inhabitants of Iowa, California and South Dakota are paying for three times as many rum cases as they are committing.

I do not want to stir up factional disputes between states. There are hard times and we ought all to stick together. But I am convinced that New York will not lower her rate of violation, and it seems to me only just that the other states should not be compelled to pay for New York's fun. The only way out is for them to have fun themselves.

—With GEORGE UNDERWOOD
A Bit on Gold Bricks. ↑ Sammy 13-5 Long Shot.
And Gotham, Wise Guys. Why Such Juicy Odds?
McLarnin-Fuller Till. ↓ Chance for Cleanup.

If Bostonian Wins, He'll Break Broadway

OUR OLD FRIEND, William Sidney Porter, who you know better perhaps by his pen name of O. Henry, once said that the best place in the world to sell a gold brick was at the corner of 42d st. and Broadway, New York. O. Henry said a mouthful. The native born New Yorker, who is so prone to laugh at the rubes from the cross-roads, is the most glib fellow alive. Where he reaches the height of glibness is in sport. Those Broadway Wise Guys have been stung often, more than the fellow who kicks over the hornet's nest, but still they come back for more. For instance, look at the prices those mysterious Broadway gents who make the betting odds for Madison Square Garden fights, placed on tonight's tete-a-tete between Snuggly Jimmy McLarnin and our Sammy Fuller. McLarnin is 13 to 5 favorite over the Bostonian favorite, McLarnin is, and should be, favorite. On form he should edge through by a shade. He's one of the rarest combinations of a boxer-hitter since the palmy days of Joe Gans. Sammy is spotting Baby Face 10 or a dozen pounds. But McLarnin has slipped in the last couple of years. In his last fight he knocked out poor old Bruer in the first round. In the fight before that Jimmy was handed a good thrashing by Lou Broillard. Andy Callahan beat Bromillard. Fuller and Callahan are about on a par. Any way you want to figure it McLarnin is not a 13 to 5 favorite over Fuller. No boxer would put an argument so far as to make it no match, should be more than a 2 to 1 favorite. Anyone who thinks McLarnin is better than a 5 to 4 favorite over Fuller doesn't know his fistic onions. If Fuller could smack McLarnin around, tonight, and it would surprise no one in this neck of the woods if Sammy did, then Broadway Wise Guys would think bankrolls with Xmas coming on, they will have no one to blame but themselves. So much Boston money already has been placed at those prices the odds are shrinking. They may be close to even by ring time.

A Memorable Buffalo Killing

If those Broadway Wise Guys do get an awful kick in their betting pants it will be nothing new. Both Buffalo and Boston sporting men have had a habit of coming down to Gotham and goldbuckling the Broadwavsites. As far as we can recall the biggest decade is credited to the Buffaloesmen, who busted Broadway wide open when Buffalo, Kansas, beat Charlie White and his famous Chicago boy, Charlie White, who had been knocking 'em all dead in Madison Square Garden. He was handled by Ike Dorsch, brother of the immortal Tad. Just to pick up a little easy money White took on Kansas, who had busted his arm, been licked a couple of times up and was supposed to be ready for the cleaner. It was the Broadway Wise Guys who were ready for the cleaner when Signor Kansas got through with Mister White. Good thing a smacking Rocky Kansas had, the Broadway Wise Guys, who had not the same kind of betting odds on the White-Kansas fight as they have on tonight's imbroglio between McLarnin and Fuller. Figuratively lost their shirts. Charlie Murray and his Buffalo bank went back to Buffalo in a special train with the corker young man, battens of rapid fire guns and empty champagne bottles littering the N. Y. Central tracks.

Plenty of Boston Hauls

Boston has cracked even more Broadway bankrolls than has Buffalo. Broadway was broke for weeks after the Sharkey-Willis and Maloney-Delaney fights. After Boston bettors took the New York gamblers on the Maloney-Delaney fight the East sports and right back and took what New York had left by wagering on Sharkey over Maloney. The Gothamites had gone wild over Maloney after his defeat of Delaney. Another Boston cleanup came when Boston backed Maloney and the Broadway Wise Guys backed DeLo. New York sent a lot of money to Boston to get a good D. O. W. in his battle here with Johnny Wilson. You all know what happened. Sammy Fuller himself already has given those Broadway odds layers three lessons. He was the underdog in the New York bouts with Ray Miller, Billy Wallace and Jackie Kid Berg. And yet Broadway thinks so little of Sammy and so much of McLarnin that it has installed Baby Face a 13 to 5 favorite, tonight. No wonder Boston money is driving the price down.

Looking for the Reason

How come these 13 to 5 odds? One of our scouts says that a yarn was circulated through New York betting circles that Sammy Fuller had been giving Manager Dan Carroll plenty of trouble by refusing to take matinee. Carroll would sign for the story goes that Carroll took the McLarnin match just to get Fuller spanked and to teach him a lesson. Bosh! Another angle is that Sammy had plenty of trouble licking Billy Wallace in Cleveland recently and the New Yorkers think Sammy has slipped more than McLarnin. Maybe so. But don't forget that the Broadway Wise Guys also figured Rocky Kansas was ready for the cleaner.

Class Doesn't Always Win

As we personally look at tonight's encounter McLarnin still has enough of the old time form left to beat Fuller. Baby Face was beaten by Lou Broillard but Lou is a reformed southpaw and with a couple of fights under his belt McLarnin's timing and distance should be better tonight. But although we believe the sharpest hitting, superb boxing youngster from Vancouver has a bit too much class for Fuller it would not surprise us if Sammy brought home the bacon. Class doesn't always win. A fair price tonight would be 5 to 4 McLarnin. But if the Broadway Wise Guys want to lay 13 to 5 why we Bostonians are not going to back. What a cleanup if Sammy should win! Talk about your gold bricks!

Wholesale Trading by Clubs Will Help Baseball Gate Receipts

In an effort to revive interest among the followers of the game, the National League has decided to allow clubs to trade players in bulk. This move is expected to increase gate receipts by making it easier for fans to see multiple stars in one game. The league has also decided to allow clubs to trade players in bulk, which is expected to increase gate receipts by making it easier for fans to see multiple stars in one game.

Baseball's Czar Shorn of Power by Magnates

By DAVIS J. WALSH
New York, Dec. 16.—The real significance of the thing apparently escaped notice or was skillfully concealed. Even the reporters passed it by without undue comment. Nevertheless, the tremendous fact remained that Judge E. M. Landis no longer is the dictator of baseball's destinies, answering for everybody and answerable to none. It has been writhed of the baseball magnates who have been clipping and while the illusion of power remains, the substance is gone. It was taken away from him yesterday at the joint meeting of the major leagues when they voted him out of the "interpretative" power in applying the rules governing the sale and purchase of players and made him a mere administrator, an employee a glorified bookkeeper. NOBODY WILL TALK. And if this seems to be stating the matter too violently, consider the fact that baseball game Landis unlimited power 10 years ago and that today, in the very place where this power was most strongly vested, he now has none. That, by the way, is not my story. It's baseball. No one will talk openly and for was personal substitution for Philip de Cadeby Ball, who had to resign. Outlander Bennett because of Landis' "interpretative" ruling on the champagne business. It wasn't necessary to rule the champagne business and Landis admitted aversion to same was in question behind yesterday's move or was it necessary to point out the deadly parallel in the famous ruling on George Sater that at once lost the player to Pittsburgh and their authority to the trinity of the old national commission. JUDGE'S NUMBER UP. A year ago he signed when they offered to present the same resolution and, standing up in meeting, threatened to resign. The American League stood by its guns at this time; the National League did not. It recoiled from the thought of what the resignation of Landis, the man of prestige, might imply. But yesterday the judge must have known his number was up, for his voice was not often audible and then only to speak definitively in connection with his $65,000 salary. They tell me that here he made a gesture of "remorseful generosity." No one would say just what this was, but, confidentially, it was understood the judge declared that, if funds for carrying on his office proved insufficient, he will make up the difference out of his salary. Other things were done at the joint meeting. These included the regulation of radio broadcasting and World Series ticket distribution by the old date of June 15 to apply only to player trades. The one "non-interpretative" feature, as applied to Judge Landis' authority, overshadowed all else.

LEADERS DOWN PAGE SLOW

New York, Dec. 16.—Leading shares moved downward during most of today's trading on the New York Stock Exchange with the price of dealings slow. Copper and steel were adversely affected by the price situation in those industries and the steel share of steel preferred advanced as it drew down the rest of the list. Stocks were above the lows for session at the close.

DIVIDEND UNCERTAINTY

Steel preferred lost a couple of points and issues losing a point or more included Steel common, Allied Chemical, American Can, Santa Fe, Du Pont, National Iron Works, New York Central, Standard of N. J., Westinghouse, Case and Union Pacific lost about 2.

Gold stocks were firm and in fact were temporarily higher. Some further signs of profit-taking in aviation activity appeared in Aviation Corp.

Selling of Steel preferred in recent sessions has evidently reflected fresh uncertainty over the dividend. Dividends are not slated to meet until the last Tuesday of January. Some quarters in Wall Street felt that continuation of the payment will depend upon the extent of the recovery in steel output during the turn of the year. The last two weeks in December are normally one of the duller periods of the year for the steelmakers.

Some conference quarters continued to reflect considerable bullishness. Some of the reason for this was that the market was well out of its recent final weeks of the year often see a further recovery in the public, however, has shown little inclination to shatter the market, although a trickle of new buying has reported here and there by some.

SLASHING HITS OIL

Oil again reflected the slapping of mid-Continental crude prices. Copper paid little attention to a slight rise in the metal in price. Prices had recently slipped back to their recent lows, following failure of the industrial conference to produce new in New York.

A worldwide break in wheat prices to new record lows was a factor.

Decline in Cotton Market Is Halted

New York, Dec. 16.—Yesterday's decline of nearly 81 cents in cotton futures was halted by a fairly active trading with the run of contracts holding steady around the previous closing level. Late quotations were unchanged to 2 points higher. January was unchanged at 5.85; March unchanged at 5.90. May, unchanged at 5.95, July up at 6.15; and October up at 6.30.

Wheat Sells Down in Chicago Market

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Downturn of grain values here early today resulted from sharp decline in European wheat quotations and bearish aspects of the United States crop report. Openings in Chicago wheat futures subsequently dropped further. The market was off and afterward held near the initial figures.

Ludlow and Graton Adding to Payrolls

Ludlow Manufacturing Associates of Ludlow and Graton & Knight Company of Worcester have applied share-the-work principle as a means to spread employment more generally in their combined plant in former case it is estimated that the output of Ludlow will be approximately $200,000 a year, as near as possible, now receiving aid from welfare department, has removed from department rolls.

Firmer Tone Noted in Copper Market

New York, Dec. 16 (AP)—Copper in the export market showed a firmer tone today, sales being reported at 8 cents a pound. This compares with a loss of 4.5 cents following the collapse of the international copper conference last week.

Bay State Cities After Financing

Brookline will receive bids until December 19 for $500,000 in bonds for 1932-1933, and payable Dec. 12, 1933.

Deposits of Postal Savings Are Higher

Postal savings deposits climbed $1,067,711 during November. The total of $4,054,715, it was announced, On Dec. 15, was an increase from $3,000,000 in the office Department reported the aggregate on deposit was $3,000,000.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

"Laws denying self-respecting adults the right to carry guns," says Col. Calvin Goodard, of Northwestern University, "are one reason for our terrific crime wave."

And also one reason for our terrific traffic jams.

But it might be a good idea to legalize gun totting, as that—since so many right thinkers object to birth control.

America the beautiful!

CHICAGO—W. W. Woods, president of the Institute of American Meat Packers, revealed today that a way has been found to tint codings for hot dogs and bologna in any number of colors.

And friends who settle family quarrels Come out with more black eyes than laurels.

"S martly dressed women," mutters Genevieve, the kitchen cynic, "like to show every thing but their age."

Teachers' association speaker says education for the proper use of leisure is more important than technical training for work. But we oughta take the long view. Maybe things'll pick up in the spring.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

DEAR AUNTIE B.—I am a young man who would appreciate a position as adviser to a lady with money who is seeking a business opportunity. Can you help me? Young Man.

Ans.—I am afraid not. At such times as Auntie Bella has dough she is not seeking no business opportunities.

A. ("Sit Tight") Bella. (Interview.)

AND SO IT GOES

"I believe that the State of California is still dry, in spite of the 2-3 vote for repeal of the Wright act," Dr. A. H. Briggs, of the Anti-Slavery League.

Adam Scofield's Journal

This evening came Harry Carey and his Olive and we all passed over the clock making salt water chin music, and he told me how to snatch a lobster trap, and how to worry an anchor bolt fast in a hole, and when to cry this and when to cry that in dirty weather, and never have I had such a fever to sell my motorcycle and get me a four-masted schooner.

ALL TOGETHER NOW!

This! Oscar G. McGlueck, big businessman, who has been appointed to head a non-partisan committee to make this the happiest Christmas since the invention of a cotton gin. Chairman McGlueck promises that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation make a special effort to advance business to big banks during the festive season, and try to do nothing for the railroads, insurance companies and larger mortgage companies. "Take care of this things," says McGlueck, "as the wagger says, buy, buy until it lies it simply means prosperity in a capital 'P'. After all, it the spirit that counts on. If you cannot afford a tree, decorate those you're up."
